

Owls

The owl has a clever sight, in the dusky night.
He shifts his head round and round, then takes off in stealthy flight.
When cometh the site far down below he sees some lemmings in the snow,
But he hath no rage in the snowy days for he can still find food.

In the distance he sees a fox nearby,
“But he cannot get me,” the Snowy Owl thinks.
But by yet he smiles a fearsome smile in the darkest light,
Then flies away to hither and yon.
So, yes, he was right for the Owl does have skills,
And he can fight his enemies in the trickery of night.
